Dear Mayor Atchison:

Re: Right to Know Week Proclamation

We request that your office declare that the week of September 23-27, 2013 is 'RIGHT TO KNOW WEEK' in Saskatchewan.

Our Right to Know Steering Committee is made up of a diverse cross-section of residents of Saskatchewan who wish to celebrate the importance to a modern democratic jurisdiction of the right of the public to access records and information in the control of public bodies. September 28th of each year is recognized and celebrated internationally as Right to Know Day. There are parallel events planned at the federal level and in other provinces. Events across Canada will be listed on the new website, www.righttoknow.ca.

Saskatchewan was one of the first provinces in western Canada to enact an access law when it adopted The Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act in 1992.

The Supreme Court of Canada has affirmed that the right of citizens to access the records of public sector organizations is fundamental. The Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act in Saskatchewan is the kind of law that the courts have described as "quasi-constitutional".

Mayor Donald J Atchison
August 30, 2013

The purpose of the law is to achieve greater transparency in the way that public sector bodies operate and to thereby promote accountability in our government institutions and local authorities.

Our hope is to promote public awareness and greater understanding of the right of access enjoyed by everyone in Saskatchewan.

We look forward to your favourable response.

Yours truly,

▶ RIGHT TO KNOW WEEK

September 23 to September 27, 2013 is Right to Know Week in Saskatchewan. This week recognizes the importance of the public's right to access public documents through The Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act. This kind of law promotes accountable government by requiring government to operate in a transparent fashion.

Right To Know - The View from the Front Lines of Journalism

Presented by Charles Rusnell, Investigative Reporter & Producer, CBC Investigates

Charles Rusnell will talk about, and provide examples of, the increasing secrecy of organizations and governments, and the importance in a democratic society of fighting for access to force accountability and transparency. He will also talk about how those who administer access and freedom to information are sometimes placed in difficult situations by employers who refuse to abide by the law.

Charles Rusnell is one of Canada's most-experienced investigative journalists and leads CBC Investigates, CBC's investigative unit in Alberta. During a career spanning more than 25 years, he has produced stories about everything from crooked senators to rogue police officers to political influence peddling to bogus charities. An acknowledged expert in access and freedom to information, Rusnell has filed thousands of requests over the past nearly 30 years, and has been an outspoken advocate for increased access. He is an occasional lecturer on FOI at journalism schools and conferences and often appears on panels related to access and the law. Born and raised in Wadena, Saskatchewan, Rusnell has degrees from the universities of Saskatchewan and Regina.

Following Mr. Rusnell's remarks, the Chief Justice E. M. Culliton Right to Know Award will be presented to a public sector organization that has demonstrated leadership in promoting the public's right to know. The award presentation will be followed by a wine and cheese reception.

To: Bryant, Shellie (Clerks)
Cc: Hill, Darren (City Councillor)
Subject: Declaration of Prostate Cancer Awareness Month

Importance: High

Dear Ms. Bryant,

On the advice of Councillor Darren Hill, I am submitting to you, for Council, a request for The Mayor/Council to proclaim September Prostate Cancer Awareness Month in Saskatoon.

As you and Council may know, prostate cancer is the leading cause of death-by-disease in men. One of six men in the City of Saskatoon will contract prostate cancer sometime in their lifetimes, and of these, many will die from the disease. If the Saskatoon area has a population of 240,000 and a split of about 50% each men and women, that means that there are 20,000 men in the Saskatoon area who either have or will develop prostate cancer in their lifetimes.

Today, there are more than 1,000 men in the Saskatoon area who have undergone surgery for prostate cancer, and many more who have sought other therapies, including radiation and chemotherapy. This number is being added to by several hundred a year.

The saddest thing about prostate cancer is that many men will not ask to be tested for the disease, and many others who have been tested positive will do nothing about it, preferring to take the simplistic advice that it is a slow-growing disease, and seeking therapy/surgery for it might not prolong your life at all. Very sad, indeed.

On behalf of those men in the Saskatoon area who have been diagnosed with prostate cancer and those who will be so diagnosed, I ask that the Mayor and Council proclaim September as Prostate Cancer Awareness Month.

On September 25th, the first Saskatchewan WAKE-UP CALL BREAKFAST for Prostate Cancer will be held in Saskatoon. Earlier this year, there was the official opening of the Les & Irene Dubé Urological Health Centre at St. Paul's Hospital, dedicated to the treatment of primarily prostate cancer, as well as other urological disorders and diseases. Working out of this Centre are two Urological Nurse Navigators who are devoted full-time to working with people who have urological diseases and disorders, primarily those with prostate cancer. Saskatoon Health Region also has been the leader in the development of the Prostate Cancer Pathway, a step-by-step chart of the process for identification, diagnosis, treatment, and care of prostate cancer and prostate cancer survivors.

As a prostate cancer survivor, and Chair of the Saskatoon Prostate Cancer Support Group, I request the Mayor and Council to proclaim September as Prostate Cancer Awareness Month. It is only through increased awareness and education that prostate cancer can be defeated. If required or requested, I would be pleased to meet with the Mayor or Councillors at any time.
